

Policy & Procedure

Student Wellbeing & Engagement

This policy's purpose is to drive the practice of teachers and school leaders to encourage positive behaviours, sound wellbeing, healthy self-discipline and a strong, sustainable school culture.

All schools have a mandate and an obligation to provide an environment that is challenging and safe for all stakeholders – students, staff and families. Within this mandate, we incorporate our faith and our strategic intention to be a school where our stated values of Respect, Empathy, Commitment, Integrity and Excellence are manifested in our work.

Aims

The School's aim is for the students to become self-disciplined. Corporal punishment is not permitted under any circumstances and the School has zero tolerance to child abuse.

The approach that our school has chosen to underpin our practice and the resultant culture is Restorative Practices. Restorative Practices connects most directly to our intentions for Student Wellbeing and Engagement. We work in partnership with students and parents/guardians to ensure that the rights and responsibilities of all stakeholders are clearly communicated and upheld within the school community and acknowledge that no one should behave in a way that makes others unsafe or afraid

Philosophy

Restorative Practices is underpinned by some key philosophical beliefs that the school's leadership have identified as being critical to cultural success:

- Restorative Practices effectively teaches students to take responsibility for their actions.
- Restorative Practices requires shifts in language that promote, dignity, respect and courtesy between all stakeholders.
- Restorative Practices is about learning to accept conflict as normal, but to focus on the harm caused by it in terms of relationships as the work that needs to be done in response.
- Restorative Practices requires both preventative and responsive procedures to be deployed in all learning environments.
- Restorative Practices is about acknowledging the past without becoming hindered in it. It's about moving from past, to present and to the future.
- Restorative Practices provides a set of useful questions to use as a guide for our intentions for dealing with conflict, bullying and poor behaviour choices.
- Restorative Practices is about confronting students with the genuine impact of their behaviours and compelling them to make amends.
- Restorative Practices is proven through an extensive body of research to be an effective available methodology for reducing the instances and severity of bullying.
- Restorative Practices is about asking questions and promoting higher levels of thinking as a means for engaging students with improved behaviour trajectories.
- Restorative Practices is about maximising a firm and a fair approach in a consistent fashion throughout all facets of school life which includes, but is not limited to; learning, relationships, respect for school property, personal appearance, hygiene and presentation.

1.Guidelines to implementation – Student Wellbeing

1.1 ICMG Saturday Turkish School supports students' wellbeing by implementing the KidsMatter (Mental Health & Wellbeing) framework, through implementing Program Achieve 'Circle Time' activities. These programs provide students with opportunities to raise issues of concern, to build positive social skills and to reflect on the school values.

4.1.1 Final decision to suspend (internally or externally) rests with the Principal.

4.1.4 The school will be available to meet with parents/families during suspension to determine strategies more likely to prevent repetition of inappropriate behaviour upon re-entry.

4.1.5 At the conclusion of a suspension, a school leader will convene a re-entry meeting compulsory for the student, affected people, and parents (where applicable) to attend so that the student has full opportunity to make amends and to re-enter the school environment successfully and without stigmatising residual shame/embarrassment.
